Dear Randy and Jeff:

I wish to express my deepest gratitude and thanks for all the valuable technical input and research provided to me in the last year in learning more about your truly outstanding probiotic product, Theralac. When I first heard about this innovative patented encapsulated probiotic formulation with its state of the art prebiotic inclusion I was very interested in finding out more about it since my experience during the past 40 years in working with probiotics has met with a great deal of uncertainty and frustration because of oftentimes misleading claims and poor product uniformity made by commercial interests.

Having been originally trained as a bacteriologist at Rutgers University and having had the honor of studying at Rutgers under Dr Selman Waksman, Nobel Prize Winner for his work in microbiology, I have long been a student of this area of science and I have been personally on probiotic supplementation for over 40 years. I have experimented with scores of different combinations, tried different commercial company products, yogurts, experimented with different dosage combinations and much more.

Several years ago both my wife and daughter were diagnosed with chronic Lyme Disease and this brought probiotic intervention to a new level of urgency for the obvious reason of necessity of utilizing heavy antibiotic therapy on my family. Huge amounts of daily probiotic supplementation was instituted and between the over 90% destruction of probiotics by the stomach acidity and by the antibiotics themselves, billions of daily probiotic CFU were necessary to maintain a level of probiotics that would insure proper gut homeostasis and prevent diarrhea and other serious gut problems from the negative consequences of long term antibiotic therapy. Even then, we had problems with occasional diarrhea episodes.

Then I heard about Theralac and my intense literature and research review convinced me that Theralac presented a technology that would enable me to deliver the therapeutic level of probiotic supplementation on a predictable basis with a lactobacillus and bifidobacterium umbrella of microorganisms that would maintain proper gut homeostasis and immune enhancement at tremendous reduced levels of ingestion by the patient. After being on Theralac for over 9 months gut health is excellent and there have been no problems with diarrhea or constipation and digestion and bowel elimination has been regular. The dosage of probiotic supplementation has been modified by over 75% from previous levels because of the ability of Theralac to deliver its programmed 20 billion CFU to the intestine and not lose any units to the destructive acidity of the stomach as happens in most other lactic acid producing bacteria supplements.

I thank and applaud the efforts of the scientific innovations and technical accomplishments of Therabiotics, Inc in developing Theralac and personally I only now take Theralac for my own daily needs and recommend this necessary and often life enhancing supplement to all from the cradle to senior citizens as one of the base nutrition supplements to take daily to maintain a healthier and more positive level of wellness.

Yours in better health,

Dr S Randy Sarantos
